Report of the Board of Directors of the Company to the shareholders

For the year ended 31 December 2025

The following pages contain the audited financial report for the year ended 31 December 2025 for the 37 funds that comprise Capital International Fund (CIF)<sup>1</sup>.

CIF is an open-ended investment company established in Luxembourg as a société d'investissement à capital variable (SICAV). Its assets are held in different funds. Each fund holds a separate portfolio of securities and other assets managed in accordance with specific investment objectives<sup>2</sup>.

Global stocks rallied, generating double-digit gains for the third year in a row. Driven by strong returns across most developed and emerging markets, the MSCI All Country World Index rose more than 22%. US markets lagged other major regions of the world but still posted solid gains above 17%, fueled by investor enthusiasm for artificial intelligence (AI).

Bond markets also advanced as many central banks around the world moved to reduce interest rates or held them steady. With inflation sitting at moderate levels, the US Federal Reserve (Fed) and the European Central Bank both cut policy rates multiple times during the year. One exception was the Bank of Japan, which hiked its key interest rate to a 30-year high.

In key markets, US equities posted strong returns in 2025, as growing enthusiasm for AI, a trio of interest rate cuts and strong corporate earnings from large-cap tech companies outweighed concerns over the economic impact of wide-sweeping tariffs implemented by U.S. President Donald Trump. Overall, the S&P 500 Index climbed 18% while the Nasdaq Composite advanced 21%.

Elsewhere, European stocks rose sharply, generating the highest calendar-year return since 2009. With the US raising tariffs on trading partners around the world in early 2025, investor sentiment shifted toward non-US stocks with lower valuations. A subsequent US-Europe trade deal announced in July helped calm fears of a trans-Atlantic trade war, fueling further gains. Overall, the MSCI Europe Index rose 35% in US dollar terms and 21% in local currency.

Japanese equities advanced, driven by optimism over improved US-Japan trade ties, a weaker yen and corporate reforms. All sectors advanced with utilities and energy leading gains. The Japanese yen ended the year flat against the US dollar.

Emerging markets (EM) stocks posted their largest gains since 2017, driven by a weaker US dollar and a global rotation toward non-US stocks. Leading technology companies in EM, such as Taiwan's TSMC and Korea's SK Hynix, benefited directly from the growth in AI. The MSCI Emerging Markets Index gained 33.6%. Chinese stocks gained 31.2% as the country sought to dampen deflation by closing inefficient manufacturing capacity and curbing intense price competition in certain industries. China's technology sector also benefited from the emergence of AI startup DeepSeek and supportive government policies to encourage entrepreneurs.

Over the year, Capital Group's strategies generally delivered strong positive absolute returns across asset classes. Exposure to EM and AI-related assets were the key positive driver behind the strategies with the strongest returns. Among the equity strategies, both growth-oriented and income-focused funds delivered strong absolute returns. Within fixed income, strategies with exposure to EM debt generated the strongest absolute gains. It was a similar story for balanced funds as portfolios with AI and/or EM exposure generated the strongest absolute returns.

A full breakdown of results can be found on pages 19 to 38.

Why do different share classes have different returns?

Each share class is designed to support the needs of different investor types and has a different total expense ratio that affects the investment returns for that share class. For example:

- Class A4, A7, A9, A11, A13, A15 & C shares and their equivalent classes, where available, are only available to institutional investors who qualify for the reduced Luxembourg tax of 0.01% (rather than 0.05%).
- Class B, BL, L, N, P, S, Z and ZL shares and their equivalent classes, where available, are primarily designed for distribution to individual investors. The management fee for class B, N shares and their equivalent classes, where available, is higher than for the other share classes to allow for compensation to distributors and other intermediaries for day-to-day services to investors or similar services in relation to investments made with their assistance.
- Class Y Shares and its equivalent classes are available only to Capital Group Investors, subject to conditions established from time to time by Capital Group, including the entering into of a separate agreement with respect to management fee and/or other fund expenses, which are not deducted from these Shares' Net Asset Value
- The management fee for class C shares and its equivalent classes, where available, is charged to shareholders outside the fund by specific separate agreement. Actual returns to shareholders of class C and its equivalent classes, where available, will be lower than those published.
- In addition, the returns of hedged equivalent classes and dividend distributing hedged equivalent classes are impacted by the passive currency-hedging overlay programme (see note 7 to the financial statements).
- For those funds without a specified reference index, a suitable illustrative index is displayed for context.

<sup>2</sup> Launch date is the date as of which shares are first issued by a fund, and hence the date on which the fund or share class was first priced. Prior results back to the launch of the fund relate to the older share classes, adjusted where necessary to reflect the management fee of the recipient share class.

<sup>4</sup> Investment results are shown in the currency referred to in the relevant class's designation. Lifetime returns are from launch date to 14 November 2025.
